Teams of residents and community organizations are working together to improve residents' health and quality of life, including access to housing, transportation, parks, healthcare, employment, and social opportunities.

“We want new Bedford to be a place where people of every age can enjoy what New Bedford has to offer.”

*– Mayor Jon Mitchell,
New Bedford*

Renting/Rental Properties

Information about rental properties

What is rental housing?

Rental housing is a housing unit such as an apartment that is lived in by someone other than the owner, in exchange for payment. Rental housing can be a whole house, an apartment, or a single room.

Payment for rental housing falls into two categories:

- Subsidized: a portion of the rent is paid by either the state or federal government, reducing the cost to the tenant. To qualify for subsidized housing, a tenant must meet income guidelines. This is also known as “subsidized rental housing.”
- Market-rate (not subsidized): the tenant pays the full rent as determined by the landlord.

A complete list of housing types is provided on page 42 of this Housing Resource Guide.

Landlord: The owner of a property who leases it to another in exchange for rent.

Tenant: A person who occupies property owned by another, usually in exchange for rent.

Information about subsidized rental properties

Whether or not you qualify for subsidized rental housing is based on income. Different types of subsidized housing have different income guidelines to determine eligibility.

If rent is based on income, the landlord or voucher agency may review household income and size at least once per year. The tenant must report changes in income and household composition as required by the lease.

Tell the housing agency if you are experiencing an emergency situation such as homelessness, eviction, or violence.

Subsidized housing programs often have long waiting lists. To maintain your spot on a wait list, make sure the agencies know how to reach you and respond to any requests for information.

Tenants can be evicted from subsidized housing for violating the terms of the lease. A tenant can lose their rental subsidy for violating the lease.

Types of subsidized housing

Subsidized Public Housing is state or federally owned and/or operated properties. The local Housing Authority is the landlord. Rent is based on income. Tenants must be income eligible.

Subsidized Private Housing is owned by individuals or businesses that receive subsidies in exchange for renting to low-and moderate-income people. This may be called a 'project-based subsidy' because the subsidy stays with the housing development (project), not the tenant. Rent for subsidized units is based on income. Tenants must be income eligible.

Housing Choice Vouchers are subsidies issued by the local Housing Authority and are used by a tenant to help pay for private rental housing. This is sometimes called a 'traveling voucher' or 'tenant-based subsidy' because the subsidy stays with the tenant, not a housing site. Tenants must be income eligible. The Housing Authority must approve the rent for the apartment, determine how much the tenant portion of the rent will be, and inspect the apartment periodically to be sure it is safe. Section 8 and MVRP are examples of Housing Choice Vouchers.

Tax Credit Properties are privately owned apartment complexes. The landlord receives tax credits in return for renting some or all of the apartments to low-income tenants at a below market rent. Tenants must be income eligible.

Types of subsidized housing, continued

Supportive Housing combines housing and services for people with disabilities. Tenants have access to services, which may include medical and mental health care, substance abuse treatment, case management, vocational training, or life skills training.

Assisted Living combines housing and personal services, such as meals, housekeeping, and social activities.

Congregate Housing is a shared living arrangement that combines housing and services for older adults and people with disabilities. This type of housing typically provides a private bedroom and shared living spaces. Tenants may have access to personal assistance including meals in order to remain independent and avoid institutionalization.

All subsidized housing is subject to state and federal regulations as well as anti-discrimination laws.

When looking for a new place to live, it helps to know:

- There are many different housing options, and where you apply depends on where you want to live.

Landlord-Tenant Law

As a tenant, you have rights and responsibilities.

Here is a brief description of some of the rights you have as a tenant in Massachusetts:

Living Conditions

All renters are entitled to a decent, safe, clean place to live. In Massachusetts, rental housing must have heat, hot water, and electricity. Kitchens and bathrooms must have sinks with running water, and doors and windows must have locks. If your landlord fails to provide these basics or to make necessary repairs within a reasonable time, you have options. Helpful information can be found at:

www.MassLegalHelp.org in the Housing chapter.

It is very important that you understand the proper procedures and possible consequences of your actions before taking any steps.

Utilities

Your landlord can only charge you for gas, electricity, hot water and heat if:

- Your apartment has separate meters for gas and electricity, and
- You agree in writing to pay for utilities.

Usually the landlord must pay for water. They can only bill you for water if:

- There is a separate meter and there are low-flow toilets and showers,
- You have agreed to pay for water in writing, and
- The landlord has filed paperwork with the city or town

Landlord-Tenant Law, Continued

Evictions

A landlord can't force you to move without going through an eviction process, including delivering you a written notice and establishing a court date. Your landlord must get permission from the court to evict you. If your landlord doesn't take the correct steps, you may be able to stop the eviction process.

It is illegal for a landlord to lock you out or remove your belongings without going through the court process.

If you are facing eviction, try to get legal help before it goes to court

- You may be eligible for free legal advice or representation.
- If you cannot get legal help, you should still respond to the paperwork and go to court.

Don't wait, get help as soon as possible!

Tenancy Preservation Program (TPP)

Call 508-944-9502

TPP works to prevent evictions and homelessness by acting as a neutral communicator between landlords and tenants. TPP helps residents with disabilities, mental illness, or age-related impairments.

Catholic Social Services (CSS)

CSS operates New Bedford's "Coordinated Entry" system and can assist with eviction prevention, and supportive housing programs.

*Contact emergency shelters listed on page 30 if shelter assistance is needed.
A list of legal resources are available on page 32.*

Resources related to Home Ownership

Home Ownership

Owning a home has many benefits, but there are also many responsibilities and occasional challenges. Older adults who would like to stay in their homes as they age often have questions about ways to save money, reduce taxes, or get help making repairs or modifications for safety.

SMOKE ALARMS and CARBON MONOXIDE DETECTORS...

...are a critical piece of safety equipment for your home.

The warning signal may help you escape from a fire or avoid inhaling dangerous smoke or carbon dioxide.

Always be sure your smoke alarms and carbon monoxide detectors are in good working order.

Home Maintenance and Repairs

Home maintenance refers to all the tasks that need to be done to keep a home safe and functional. It includes simple chores, like changing a light bulb, and more difficult tasks, like shoveling snow from a walkway.

Home repair is to fix something that is not working properly. Examples of repairs include fixing a loose handrail, or patching a leaky roof.

The City of New Bedford has programs to help low-income residents pay for home repairs. To learn more, call the Office of Housing and Community Development (OHCD) at 508-979-1500.

-  Financial Assistance Program: A low-interest loan to help low-income homeowners correct building code violations or make the repairs necessary to provide a safe environment.
-  Emergency Repair Program: Financial assistance to assist with specific home repairs to alleviate unsafe, unsanitary, or dangerous conditions.
-  Housing Accessibility Program: A grant to assist income eligible applicants with physical disabilities make their home handicap accessible.
-  Lead Paint Reimbursement Program: A grant that provides funding to assist with removal of lead paint from homes occupied by income eligible applicants.

Home Maintenance and Repairs, Continued

Help with Old Appliances

AMP (Appliance Management Program) helps replace older, inefficient appliances such as refrigerators and freezers. Homeowners and tenants are eligible.

Help with Heat Systems

HEARTWAP (Heating System Repair & Replacement Program) helps repair or replace heating systems. To be eligible for this program, you have to be eligible for fuel assistance. In winter, priority is given to clients with no heat or unsafe heat. If you have no heat or an unsafe system, please mention that when you call.

Help with Weatherization

Weatherization Program helps clients install insulation and take steps to reduce heat loss. Clients who are eligible for fuel assistance are also eligible for weatherization help. Priority is given to the elderly, disabled, and households with young children.

To apply to any of these programs,
call PACE at 508-999-9920

Home Modifications

If you want to stay in your home, but need to make changes:

Older adults who want to live at home as they age may find that their homes are not keeping up with their changing needs.

Changes to the home, such as adding support features and reducing hazards, can make living at home easier and safer.

There are several programs that can help pay for home modifications:

The City of New Bedford, Office of Housing and Community Development (OHCD) offers three home modification programs. For more information call the City's OHCD at 508-979-1500.

- Financial Assistance Program: A low-interest loan made to low-income homeowners who need to correct code violations, or make the repairs necessary to provide a safe environment.
- Housing Accessibility Program: Grant funds available to help low-income home owners or renters make home modifications to improve accessibility.
- Emergency Repair Program: Grant funds available to assist with specific home repairs to alleviate unsafe or unhealthy conditions.

Federal Housing Administration (FHA) offers guaranteed loans through HUD. These are best for making changes to a family home that an older adult will be moving into. For more information and HUD Housing Counseling, call Catholic Social Services at 508-674-4681.

Home Modifications...

are adjustments made to a home that will make it easier for people with physical challenges to live in the space comfortably. Some home modifications are simple, but others are more complex and costly.

Home Modifications, Continued

 MA Home Modification Loan Program (HMLP) is a state-funded loan program that can help residents live more independently at home.

- The program provides 0% loans up to $50,000 to homeowners to help pay for modifications that allow older and disabled adults to remain in a home.
- There are no monthly payments due.
- Repayment of the loan is required when the home is sold or transferred.
- Landlords are eligible for a 3% loan with monthly payments due over 5-15 years.

Tips for Hiring a Contractor

Some jobs are too large to do on your own and require professional help.

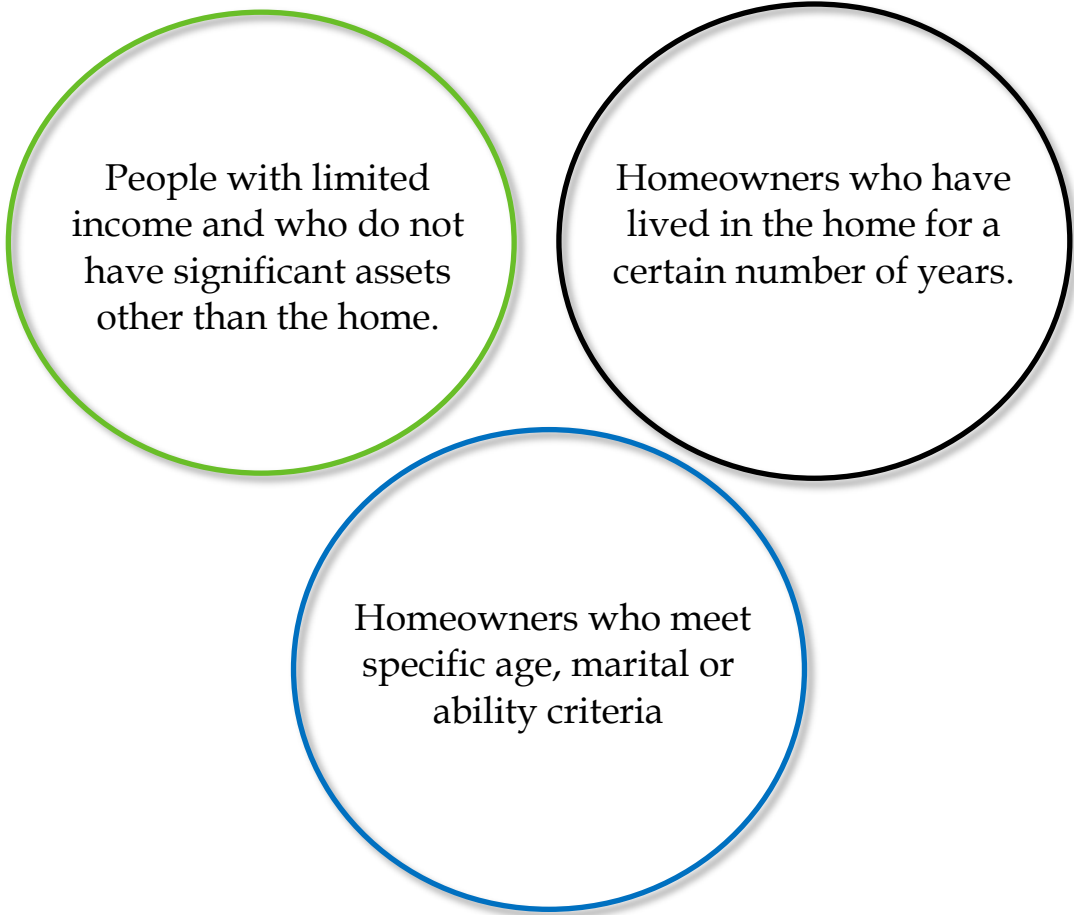

- Ask family and friends for recommendations.
- Make sure the contractor is licensed and insured for the work being done.
- Check with the Better Business Bureau and Chamber of Commerce to see if any complaints have been filed against the contractor.
- Get a written agreement that clearly details the work to be completed, the time the job will take, and how much it will cost.
- Expect to pay a small down payment to begin the work.

Property Tax Exemptions

It is important to check with your local Assessor's Office to learn more about what programs are available in your community.

Homeowners who have lived in the home for a certain number of years.

Home Equity

For many people their home is their biggest investment, but deciding how or when to use the money invested in a home can be difficult.

Home Equity is the difference between the fair market value of the home and the outstanding balance of all loans on the property.

It is important to get professional advice and make sure you understand all of your options before you make a decision.

Sale of the home:

To 'cash-out' of the house, you would sell it and pay off any outstanding loans.

This allows you to take the remaining funds and choose a new place to live.

However, if you want to stay in the home, there are other financial options. It is important to fully understand the pros and cons of each financial product offered and seek the advice of a financial professional before making a decision.

Home Equity Loan:

A fixed-rate home equity loan is sometimes called a second mortgage. The amount you can borrow is based on the value of your home. You (the borrower) receive a single payment from the lender. You repay the loan at an agreed upon interest rate over a set period of time. The loan must be repaid in full if the home is sold.

Reverse Mortgage:

Instead of receiving one payment from the lender, the borrower receives a tax-free monthly payment. The amount available to borrow is based on the equity in the home. The loan is repaid when you sell the house or die. You are expected to continue paying property taxes, insurance, and maintenance just as you did before the loan. There are several types of reverse mortgages and many have interest and fees that are higher than those of a conventional mortgage.

Reverse mortgages are complicated. They are a good idea in some situations, and a bad idea in others. It is important to get trustworthy financial advice before making a decision.

Professional Reverse Mortgage Counseling:

Call 800-569-4287 to find a HUD approved reverse mortgage counselor near you.

Home Sharing

What is Home Sharing?

Home sharing is a fairly new idea that matches homeowners with extra room to individuals looking for a home to share. Home sharing involves a legal contract that defines the roles and responsibilities of both the host and the guest. Hosts/guests can revisit shared living agreement at any time.

Two Types of Home Sharing:

- A host is matched with a guest who pays rent
- A host is matched with a guest who exchanges household duties for reduced rent

Why Home Share?

- Assists host with additional income and shared costs
- Guests may help with tasks that allow the host to stay in the home
- Assists the guest with a lower monthly rent
- Increases security & independence
- Promotes companionship

Things to think about...

- What are your expectations?
- Does your home have enough space to share?
- Is your home age friendly?
- Do you like having other people around?
- Be sure to have a contract for payment & rules such as noise levels.
- Do a background check and check references.
- Have an exit plan in place for renter/owner.

Potential issues with Home Sharing...

- Home Sharing creates a landlord-tenant relationship
- You should get legal advice before entering into a home sharing agreement
- Be sure to check with the local building department as there may be additional permitting requirements to consider
- You must go through a formal eviction process to remove someone who is sharing your home
